

INSPIRATION

Monet describes his goals for the project: "Imagine a circular room, whose walls are entirely filled by a horizon of water spotted with these plants. Walls of transparency - sometimes green, sometimes verging on mauve. The silence and calm of the water reflecting the flowering display; the tones are vague, deliciously nuanced, as delicate as a dream."

Nature-inspired mid-tones ground collections with botanical shades and neutral hues

Why are they key? Bay Leaf and Alpine Frost set the tone in this story, inspired by lush vegetation and outdoors-based wellness pursuits.

How to use them: Ground styles with greens, and use warmer shades as accents. These complementary mid-tones lend themselves to fresh tropical or botanical prints for both men's and women's collections.

Complement dark shades with warm mid-tones for a sophisticated and moody palette

Why are they key? This colour story has a mystical quality, taking inspiration from night swimming and dark natural hues that emerge as night falls, offering a contrast of deep tones and warm accents.

How to use them: These shades ensure swimsuit/bodysuit hybrids work from day-tonight. Elegant maxidresses and beach shirts in night-glow colours will work across the market for men's, women's and resort ranges.
